Organization Development Grants are designed to address the primary needs of an organization by improving and expanding an organization’s expertise and ability to fulfill its mission. Areas of focus for these grants include: planning, administrative structure, fiscal integrity, artistic positioning, marketing, and communications. These grants may be used to develop a greater level of expertise within an organization or expand an organization’s ability to provide high-level programming for the Denver community. Indicate which category you will be addressing in your application:

- Marketing and communications
- Fundraising expansion and diversification
- Financial management
- Board development
- Program and audience development and evaluation
- Diversity, equity and inclusion training and consultation
- Purchases or education to improve administrative functions and fiscal integrity
- Training, Education & Conferences on non-profit management or professional development
Funds are only available for registration cost and fees that are directly attributable to the educational opportunity, and are not available for travel, lodging or per diem expenses.
- Hiring a consultant to address specific issues within the organization or the board
- Skills building or coaching that provides a one-time service based on expertise the organization does not possess
- Board and staff long-range planning involving transformational efforts, systemic change, or repositioning of an organization within its artistic space.
- Other
Other organization development requests may be considered by the Committee, based on need and merit.
